PLEASE BE AWARE OF SCAMS! THIS IS AN EXAMPLE OF ONE OUT THERE

I was contacted this weekend by a gentleman who tried to Scam Me with Rental & Identity Fraud. Please be aware of Walter D. Frieze, he DOES NOT own the home in Columbia & he can't talk on the phone due to being deaf. Tried to get me to put a down payment TODAY in the form of a Gift Card, plus another $50 to FedEx the Keys to me. I did my Due Diligence and found out the home is actually active for sale on the market. Contacted the agent who also contacted the owners and are reporting it to Law Enforcement! 🏠

Have you heard of the Rental Scam?

Rental scams have been around for some time, and we want to warn our residents. Rental scammers try to get money from a prospective tenant for a property which in most cases are real, by listing the rental onto media sites such as Facebook and Craigslist. The scammer might lead all prospects to believe they're getting the rental and collect fees and security deposits upfront. The scammer may pose as the property manager for the home owner, when in fact the owner is unaware of what is occurring. Once the prospects realize they've been scammed, the scammer has usually vanished with their money.

*Tips to help prevent being scammed. *

-Always be aware of requests to send cash or money orders. Be wary of any person who attempts to get you to sign a lease or hand over a substantial amount of money on the spot.

-Look at property with the Realtor or Property Management Company and ask for identification. Sign a lease in person after you view the property and request copies of everything you sign. Never pay a security deposit or payments with cash. This makes it harder to track.

-Conduct basic research. Google the address of the apartment or home and also the landlord's name and the name of the management company. Look for red flags and inconsistencies.

-If the deal seems too good to be true, it probably is. Prevention is always far better than trying to recover from fraud after-the-fact.

1. If you fall victim to a rental scam make a report with law enforcement and give them as much information as possible.
2. Contact the publisher/ company behind the ad and let them know what happened.
3. If you become the victim of a rental scam in the United States consider reporting it to the federal trade commission (FTC), federal consumer protection agency. 1-877-382-4357 (1-877-FTC-HELP).
4. Share your story with friends, family and as many people as you can to help prevent others from falling victim to the same.
